Marcy Wudarski, the first wife and ex-wife of James Gandolfini

Marcy Wudarski was James Gandolfini's wife. They had a son, Michael. Marcy has the recognition of being James Gandolfini, the actor's wife. She is also a star working in the entertainment industry behind the screens.

Marcy was born in the year 1967 on February 6 and was from a military working-class family. She graduated from Bayonet Point Junior High School. She pursued as a film producer and it was her career.

Gandolfini, is known best for his role as Tony Soprano s "The Sopranos", and he won 309 award nominations and won 120, including 21 Primetime Emmys. He has two older sisters Leta and Johanna. Their parents were devout Catholics, Santa and James Joseph and spoke at home Italian. He was interested in acting from his school days that he appeared in school plays and college. He moved to New York and studied under Kathryn Gately, acting teacher at The Gately Poole Conservatory.

Relationship of Marcy Wudarski and James Gandolfini

Marcy and Gandolfini met in 1995 and she was his personal secretary. While he met her, he was nobody and was working between jobs. A friend suggested her part-timer helper job do a few things for the actor you made no movies.

Gandolfini's career was ready to start and he sought help from Wudarski. The pair after working relationship began dating and moved shortly into a West Village Apartment. In March, 1999, they got married in a private wedding ceremony. She was already pregnant with Michael, their first child. Unfortunately the relationship was short-lived.

Marcy was happily married to Gandolfini, but the marriage did not sustain for many years. She revealed one day that their divorce was due to the drugs and alcohol abuse in the marriage that it wrecked soon.

Gandolfini's wife said he had serious issues with alcohol and drugs, besides it was increasing. It was resulting in arguments that the actor would punch himself in frustration. Unfortunately, in 2013 after divorce, he died of heart attack and she had to put a brave face for her son.

Michael was 14 years old as his father passed away. Now, Michael, Gandolfini's son is an actor, following the footsteps of his father.

There were rumors about James filing a divorce and Marcy claimed about his drug and alcohol issues. James said it was her emotional volatile and temperamental behavior. After divorce she got Michael and the apartment, but they were in good relationship.

Marcy has blonde hair 54 years' old and green eyes. Her net worth is approximately at $500,000.

Marcy Wudarski Quick facts

- She is single and has a child
- Her son Michael debuted in Oceans 8
  For more details visit: https://biographypost.org/marcy-wudarski-bio-whats-james-gandolfinis-ex-wife-doing-now/